

Based in north-west Switzerland, Aero Group is a well-established EASA Part-145 organisation, holding ratings for several piston and turbine aircrafts. With our two bases located in Les Eplatures and Colombier, we strive to provide our customers with the highest quality craftsmanship possible in aviation maintenance and modification.

In order to reinforce our avionic team based in Les Eplatures (LSCG) and Colombier (LSGN), we are currently recruiting a

Licensed Avionic Technician

What you do:

- Install, inspect, test, adjust or repair avionics equipment
- Troubleshoot instruments, components, assemblies, and systems
- Develop and install avionic system upgrades according customer wishes
- Supply AOG service to our customer's fleet
- Keep records of maintenance and repair work as required by the authority
- Maintain and repair ground equipment and special tooling as required
- Direct communicate with our customers and plan accordingly

What you bring:

- EASA Part-66 B2 license, (Beneficial with PC12, Beechcraft B200/300 or Cessna Caravan Type Rating)
- Good knowledge of English, both spoken and written
- Good IT skills, (Microsoft Office)
- Driving license, category B
- Swiss citizens or EU passport with clean criminal record
- Ideally, located in Switzerland
- Willingness to integrate into a growing company

What we offer:

- Contemporary and competitive wage and social benefits
- Dynamic, ambitious, and growing company
- Continuous training program
- Unlimited and full-time contract
- Possibility to take over avionic shop responsibilities in the future

Become part of Aero Group SA :

- Please send your application including cover letter, license copy, and CV by email to:
job@aerogroup.ch